Blackma Visits GSCW League

Miss Frances Blackmon, the executive director of the Georgia League of Women Voters, came from the Atlanta office to the GSCW campus last week in connection with her visits to all the College Leagues in Georgia. Miss Blackmon was the guest of Dr. Walston during her visit, from Thursday until Sunday. While here she not only held conferences concerning the College League, but also met with the Milledgeville League of Women Voters, whose president is Mrs. Gussie Tabb King, assistant professor of Home Economics at GSCW.

Miss Blackmon met with the officers of the College League on Friday afternoon, September 28, and with the Board on Friday night. She gave valuable aid in planning the activities of the coming year. Miss Betty Callaway, president of the College League, is going forward with her suggestions.

TO THE STUDENTS

After a summer away from the campus it is a joy to see all of you back at GSCW. Bright sweaters, raincoats, saddle oxfords, and students rushing from class to class just make things look "right" again.

Already we have tried to tell and to show you new students how happy we are to have you with us. We hope that by now you really feel a part of us, for you are.

For the faculty there's a big welcome, too. It's good to be back with you and to greet new members to our college.

By working together we can make this a good year at GSCW. We would like to thank you for your past interest in College Government and to ask for your continued interest and cooperation.

Here's best wishes for a happy and successful year.

Sincerely, your friend,
JANET FOWLER,
President, GGA

Religious Emphasis Week Oct. 14-20

Next week is Religious Emphasis Week at GSCW. For those who have never participated in a Religious Emphasis Week, this will be a satisfying new experience, especially if they enter into all the activities which will take place throughout the week of October 14-20.

Religious Emphasis Week is aptly named. All activities and programs during the week will be devoted to the development and furtherance of religious awareness. No club meetings will be held which would in any way interfere with a religious program being held on the campus.

Two outstanding speakers, Dr. M. Herman Horne and Rev. "Scotty" Cowen, will be here all week to lead discussions and lecture to classes, group meetings, and dormitories. In addition, they will be available for individual conferences, to discuss and answer any questions of religion, ethics or morals that students find perplexing.

This is an opportunity for spiritual growth that is not on every day occurrence. Take advantage of it. This is your chance to reorganize your concepts so that your religious life will be more satisfying, more clearly defined, and of greater value to you in daily living.

Our Education, Our Responsibility

We Are Beginning Again

Some of us are here for the second, third, or fourth time. Over 500 of us are here for the first time, as freshmen.

We, as freshmen, have left behind us the years of compulsory education. We did not have to come to college. We are here because we want to be.

We Are On Our Own

From now on, our education is our own responsibility. If we choose to fail in our studies here, we will have to admit the fault is ours. If we are determined to succeed, to get the most out of college, to prepare ourselves in the best way possible to earn a living and at the same time serve our fellow-beings well, a successful college life is almost ours. Add to that determination a lot of hard work and perseverance, and our four years here will not only be the best we have ever spent, but they will have provided a good foundation for the years to come.

Beeson Room Ready For Use

Easy chairs, books, and you are the main interests of Beeson Reading Room.

Lamp light and soft music have been added for your reception of such people as M. Stalin, General Eisenhower, and Scarlett O'Hara. These personages along with others of the printed page are arranged in suitable company for your convenience.

Even the fashion magazines have been moved upstairs. Mademoiselle, Vogue, Harper's Bazaar are now adjacent to comfortable chairs.

Poetry and drama have not been slighted. These subjects have their place on the Beeson Room tables. The varied interests of GSCW are reflected by the displays.

The invitation and the doors are open—come up and lounge around.

Mauldin's Up Front Presents GI's View

"Please read Up Front by Bill Mauldin. It surely brings out the GI's point of view. I think it will do you good to read about what happened. It's the truth as far as I can see."

That is what one overseas veteran thinks about Bill Mauldin's newest book, Up Front. While the book contains many of the cartoons of Willie and Joe, which made Mauldin famous, there are more than 30,000 words in the book.

Bill Mauldin was in Italy throughout the Italian campaign. When France was invaded, he was there. He is a veteran combat infantryman. He didn't just look at it. He was in it.

His story is not just his story. It's the story of your man in service.

Although the book is not intended to be humorous, it has humor. Bill Mauldin wrote about what he saw. If that happens to be humorous, it was included in his book. If it was grim, it was included, too, because that's how things were.

Read Bill Mauldin's Up Front. It will do you good. You will find it in the Rental Library.

Distribute Education Club Elects Officers

The Distributive Education held its first meeting on Tuesday, October 2, in Chapel Hall.

The new officers elected for this year were: President, Lois Curry, Union Point, Ga.; Vice-president, Elnor Dozier, Thomson, Ga.; Secretary, Nanette Daniel, Griffin, Ga.; Treasurer, Virginia Hoot, Decatur, Ga.; Publicity Manager, Saidee Scott, Senoia, Ga.

Other interesting and important phases of the meeting were plans for the initiation and plans for the activity of the club this year.

The club consists of 45 members.

Dr. Little Compares Army Teaching Methods To That Of Public Schools

Dr. Harry A. Little, who returns this year as head of education and teacher training, has had an excellent opportunity to observe army methods of teaching, and to compare them to those employed in public schools.

An educational advisor to the A.C. Corps, Dr. Little found that methods they used were no different from those of good instructors throughout Georgia, but the equipment and greater amount of money to spend gave the army greater advantage over other institutions and made possible an accelerated program. Educators, who have had experience with the army have seen how learning can be quickened with better visual aids, models, and other equipment, and will probably demand more of these in the future education program. Rather than accelerating course, students will probably stay in school longer because of the smaller number of jobs.

The teaching profession, which is an underpaid one, has a brighter future for those who choose it as their life work—students from GSCW, who were placed in positions last year received about $1500 a year, which is as high as most office workers make, and higher than some many other white collar jobs open to women. Elementary teachers now receive as high pay as those in high schools. Here at GSCW, Dr. Little's educational program seeks to (1) Improve training of teachers; (2) Extend the college services to better the whole state; and (3) To do research in better ways of furthering education.

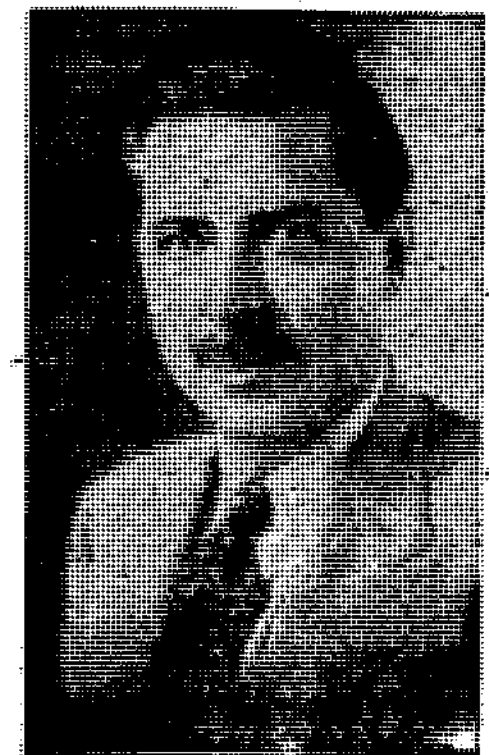

Reprinted from the October issue of Esquire

"He isn't only demobilized—he's immobilized!"

"Seven points which the religious forces of the land have agreed upon as a basis for our national policy in organizing the coming peace, as outlined by the Rev. S. J. Conway, S. J.: The moral law must govern world order; the rights of the individual must be assured; the rights of the oppressed, weak or colonial peoples must be protected; the rights of minorities must be secured; international institutions to maintain peace with justice must be organized; international economic cooperation must be developed; a just social order within each state must be achieved." — From The Skyscraper, Mudelein Col. leg., Chicago.

"So long as we have wars, we can speak of the imperfection of man. The greatest boon that can come to mankind is for the people of the world to work together and strive for elimination of war. We must believe the world emerging from this war will be better. We must have faith or we cannot retain our ideals. This was the most global war of all; everyone has been touched. And the peace will be as global as this present war became." — Rabbi Louis J. Chastan of Des Moines.

Big Sisters Guide Freshmen During First Weeks Of College

On September 17, amid shouts of joy and last minute instructions of loving parents, the new "Jessies" arrived.

Soon after arriving most of us realized we didn't know where anything was, what we were supposed to do, or anything at all about this new life. A minor wave of panic swept over each new "Jessie." "What shall I do?" we each moaned.

Who came to our rescue, but a friend, wise in all the ways of her Alma Mater. Yes, the Big Sisters. What would we poor freshmen do without them.

Sanford Plans Social Schedule

Social functions at Sanford Hall this fall will include the following entertainments:

October 14, there will be coffee honoring the new faculty members, with Lois Corry as chairman of this affair.

On October 20, a game party will be held with Virginia Brazell as the chairman.

The Senior Dance will be given on November 3, with Iris Young serving as chairman.

Jackie Burton will be chairman of the formal dinner to be given on November 14.

The Christmas Informal Dance will take place on December 9, with Patsy Ingle in charge.

First, she came around and introduced herself to each of her little sisters. She offered a helping hand to each bewildered girl. She took us on tours of the campus, introduced us to other students, as well as to faculty members. She even offered an understanding shoulder for the homesick little sister to cry on.

Each big sister—there are 21 of them—is the guide and guardian of approximately 20 freshman girls. They are elected by the "Y", and they serve the freshmen for the first two quarters, after which time the freshmen are expected to kinda know their way around. The "Big Sister" is her group's YWCA sponsor and they meet with her every Monday night.

The Big Sisters are: Ann Carson, Patsy Hodges, Meb Brantley, Jane Whitehead, Jenelle Poss, Rosa Malone, Virginia Hood, Ernestine Prescott, Isabelle Murphy, Miriam Collins, Ora Spivey, Nada Street, Elizabeth Mallard, Betty Lane Brinson, Sally Welch, Marianne Armstrong, Rose Varn, Barbara Duvall, Virginia Nichols, Naomi Mizelle, Ruth Ellis. Their supervisor is Helen Akin.

Big Sisters, we salute you and love you for taking a real interest in us, and for being "a friend in need."
